

What's the benefit of United Kingdom Certified Organic Skincare?

Ingredient quality

Our philosophy is simple: To have chemical-free body care that gives great results and is a joy to use. This means using the highest quality organic herbs and essential oils in the therapeutic concentrations for optimum benefit. Plant oils must be virgin and cold pressed, so that they have their full antioxidant vitamin-content intact to actively nourish the skin and protect it from premature aging.

Value

Koco Spa only sources the highest quality, pure, organic and ethical ingredients and do not compromise the quality and effectiveness of any of our products to cut costs. We believe safe, organic products should be affordable by all, so where possible, we economize on unnecessary external packaging and lavish advertising, concentrating the value where it is most important - in the product itself.

Sustainability

We have an active commitment to the care of the environment which includes supporting organic farming methods, widely acknowledged to cause lower pollution from sprays, produce less carbon dioxide & dangerous wastes and benefit wildlife.

As well as organic certification of our carrying products, we choose raw materials which are locally-sourced where possible, are from sustainable and renewable resources, and are either recycled or can be recycled safely. Much of our packaging is made in the UK in order to minimize air miles.

Ethical Manufacture

We chosen the best products with ethical supporting background and awarded. Most United Kingdom made products are automatically approved by Good Manufacture Practice (GMP) and registered with ethical associations.

All products are suitable for vegetarians. Vegan products.

Fair Trade

We respect labor, the planet and yourself. We offered only fair trade products with fair labor, wages, profits, and environment and free from using synthetic pesticides, insecticides or any toxin chemical to labor. Sweatshop free.

Certified Organic means really:

As close to nature as possible, without artifices. Only certified products may be called 'organic'. A natural balance between people, plants and wildlife.

Did you know?

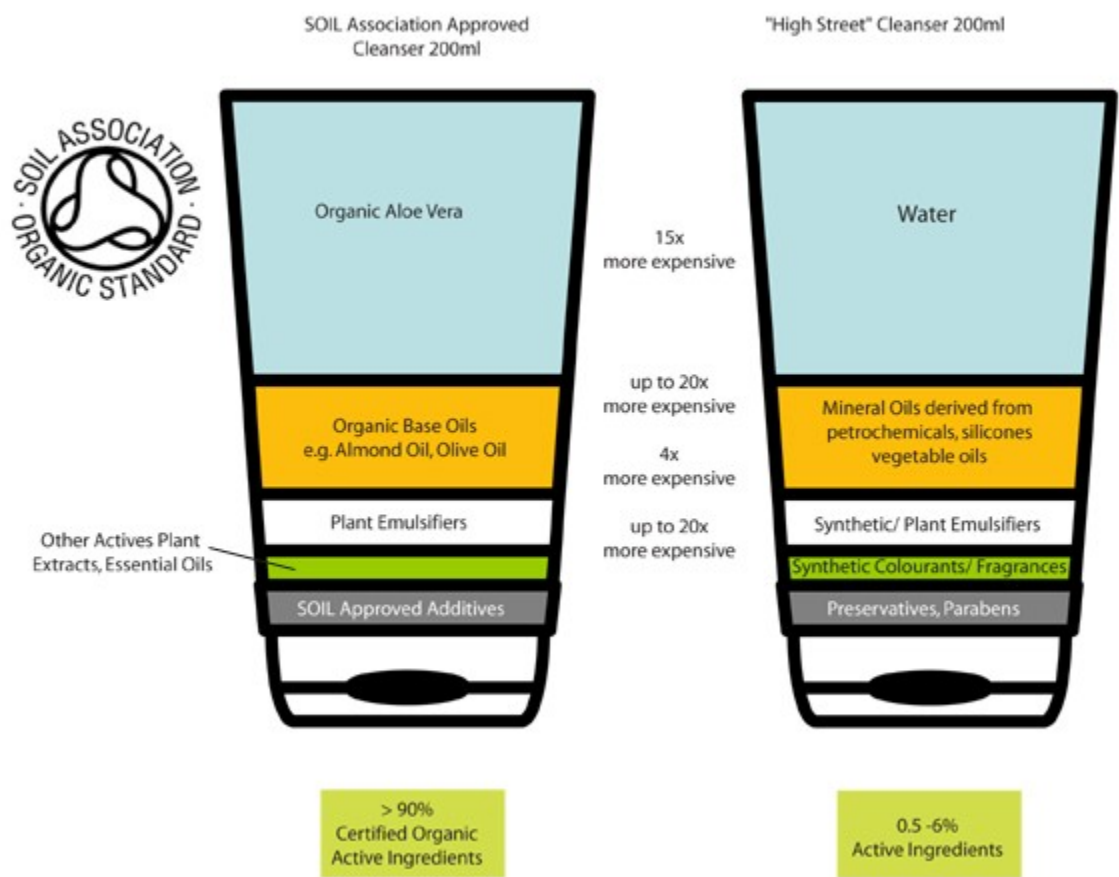

25% of all insecticides used globally are used to grow conventional cotton, that's 40 million kilograms of harmful chemicals, every year!

Why use Soil Association and EcoCert approved organic skincare?

Why are our formulations such good value for money?

Many 'High Street' cosmetic brands contain a large proportion of non-active ingredients in the form of water (often 70% or more) and synthetic ingredients used to create better textures, skin feel, fragrance and preservation as cheaply as possible.

Koco Spa's carrying products offer excellent value; they are effective and concentrated so only a small amount is needed. We are proud to offer you a wide range of organic formulations that contain a very high level of active plant extracts and are expertly formulated using certified organic ingredients.

Our skin care product brands contain over 90% active organic ingredients - compared to 'High Street' products which normally have an active ingredient level (non-organic) of below 6%.

A minimum of >95% organic ingredient on every organically grown beauty product with Soil Association symbol.

5 easy ways to become an organic beauty

1. Look for the symbol! If the label says that the product is organic or contains organic ingredients but does not carry the Soil Association symbol (or a European equivalent like Ecocert in France) then this may just be an unsubstantiated marketing ploy.
2. Read our information sheet for details of companies that have Soil Association certified organic products.
3. Ask for information – if you are faced with a product that says it's organic, but you are dubious about its credentials then ask the shop staff or ring the company's customer care line and ask them about the claims they are making.
4. If you are interested in making your own simple cosmetics then why not switch to using oils? You can make your own blends easily using a mix of essential oils and base oil. They can be applied to your face, body or in the bath. If you haven't used oils before please find a reputable supplier and ask their advice before applying.
5. Cut down on the products that you and your family use – much of the concern is about the 'cocktail effect' of the chemicals in the different products that we use. Many women are using over 20 different products a day, bombarding themselves with hundreds of different chemicals – is that eyelash conditioner really essential?
